Cover

This cover was created by Larissa Muhovic, a student in Publicity and Marketing Design in Brussels who wishes to become a graphic designer and illustrator. This colourful, minimalist illustration features a stylised depiction of an exhaust pipe and the smoke it emits and also incorporates different roads and destinations. The idea behind the cover was to illustrate the many ways in which cars could shape our everyday life in the future and the potential consequences for the environment. There are a lot of issues that come with the extensive use of cars which humanity may not be fully aware of yet. The question of whether cars will continue to be a common means of transport in the future is left open.
